Legislative Council
Policy on Security Screening
Protocols for the Maine State House

The Legislative Council adopts this policy on security screening in the State House to enhance measures to protect the health and safety of persons working in or having occasion to enter the Maine State House, to protect the physical integrity of the State House, and to establish protocols for implementing security screening measures. The intent of these screening measures is to prevent dangerous items from being brought into the State House while still allowing access to anyone who wishes to enter.

- I. State House open to public. The State House is open to the public from 7:30 AM to 5:00 PM Monday through Friday, exclusive of state-observed holidays. The building is also open to the public after regular business hours whenever the Senate or the House of Representatives is in session and whenever a joint standing or select committee of the Legislature is holding a public meeting in the State House. The State House will ordinarily remain open for 30 minutes following the end of an after-hours session or committee meeting. Access to the State House by members of the public is limited to the West entrance and the underground connector from the Cross Building.
- II. Security screening required. All persons entering the State House, except as otherwise provided in this policy, shall be subject to security screening upon entering the State House. Any person who refuses to submit to screening shall be refused access to the State House. If a person refuses to submit to security screening, the on-duty security screener shall notify the on-duty law enforcement officer of the Bureau of Capitol Police who shall make all decisions to refuse entry to the building.
- III. Screening measures. Except as otherwise provided in this policy, the following measures must be employed for all persons entering the State House.
  - A. Persons must pass through a stationary magnetometer used to detect metals. Alternatively, a person may request that a handheld magnetometer be used in lieu of passing through the stationary magnetometer. If, by reason of disability or medical condition, a person has been advised by a qualified health care provider to not be subjected to magnetometers and provides reasonable demonstration of such condition or medical advice, the person may request a hand and visual inspection ("pat down") from security personnel. Such a request may not be unreasonably denied. When requesting a pat down, the person must be afforded the opportunity for the pat down to be performed by security personnel or police officer of the same gender. However, when security personnel of the same gender is requested but not reasonably available, the on-duty law enforcement officer of the Bureau of Capitol Police may allow screening by means of a visual inspection and interview of the requester in lieu of a hand pat down.

- B. Persons must allow packages, personal belongings and other items on his or her person to be inspected by passing them through a package screening device. A person may request a visual and hand inspection if use of the package screening device may damage the contents of a package (e.g. high speed film) or if the package is too large to pass through the device.

IV. Prohibition on certain items. The following items are prohibited in the State House or other legislative area, regardless of whether a person is required to undergo security screening measures:

- Weapons or ammunition of any kind
- Paint or pellet guns
- Fireworks, firecrackers, sparklers or other explosive or incendiary devices
- Compressed flammable or helium gases
- Flammable liquids
- Alcoholic beverages, unless unopened and in their original container and condition, and not to be consumed on-site
- Illegal drugs or substances
- Other substances or items that could reasonably, in the judgment of Capitol Police present a significant risk to people or property in the State House environment.

Notwithstanding this prohibition, a bona-fide military or law enforcement honor guard or military personnel in full dress uniform while participating in a formal military ceremony in the State House may be permitted to carry weapons provided all firearms have been disabled and are incapable of being discharged. Furthermore, an on-duty law enforcement officer is permitted to carry a weapon provided that the officer so discloses possession of the weapon and allow its inspection by the on-duty Capitol Police officer who shall keep a written log of all such exceptions to the prohibition.

- V. Limitations for use of access card. A person to whom a card is issued by the Legislature for access to the State House and other legislative areas or for security purposes may not lend or otherwise transfer the access card to another person or use the access card to bring in any items for another person, and a person who is not the holder of the card may not present the card to security personnel for the purposes of misrepresenting the person's identify, avoiding security screening or accessing an area to which the person is not authorized. A photograph of the authorized holder will be visible on the card and a digital copy of the picture shall be stored in the access card system. Abuse of the access card or special access privileges will result in the confiscation of the access card by a Capitol Police officer and shall be delivered immediately to the Executive Director of the Legislative Council along with an explanation of the circumstances that gave rise to the confiscation. The Executive Director of the Legislative Council or the Chief of Capitol Police can, for cause, immediately revoke access card privileges to the State House. Any such revocations that are believed to be unjust can be appealed to the full Legislative Council, but access privileges will remain revoked unless the Council decides to restore the privileges.

- VI. Persons excepted. The following persons who possess a valid access card allowing access to the State House as a result of the State House being their principal work location or that need access to the State House outside of normal business hours to consult with the Governor are not required to undergo the building security measures upon presentation of the access card to the security screening personnel.

- VIII. Priority screening for lower-risk individuals. The following persons may be given an access card for limited duration to permit passage through the priority, lower-risk screening lane at the main entrance to the State House, after applying to the Legislative Council's executive director and upon successful completion of a satisfactory background check performed regularly as determined by the Executive Director.

Persons who have a medical condition or are disabled in a manner that prevents them from undergoing security screening and who have a regular and necessary need to enter the State House, upon documentation from a qualified medical provider that the person may not be subjected to magnetometer screening; and
- F. Persons who have a regular and necessary on-going need to enter the State House as a result of their profession or employment, including registered professional lobbyists, State agency legislative liaisons, and attorneys representing clients on legislative matters. These persons are subject to an initial application fee of $75 to offset the processing and security card costs, and a renewal fee of $25 per legislature. State agency personnel that already have been issued an access card by their respective state agency are subject to a $25 initial application fee and a $25 renewal fee. The Executive Director may waive one initial application fee or one renewal per legislative biennium for one staff member from each member of Maine's Congressional Delegation.
